JURY TRIED THE WINE

Liquor Case in the Circuit Court.

HUMPHREYS SCORES SPIES

Yesterday's Proceedings Were of Little Interest—Cartwright Loans Unauthorized.

With beer and wine cases as an almost daily menu the present petit jury in the Circuit Court should be having a pleasant time while patriotically serving the government. Early in the week three beer kegs were introduced as exhibits in the Greck case and yesterday a bottle of wine purchased from A. Kuhnst was shown to the jurors that they might decide whether or not it was intoxicating. The bottle containing the red liquid was handed around to the jury by Mr. Cathcart for smelling purpose, but two of the members did not content themselves with a simple smell but held the bottle to their lips, and sampled the contents in a much more realistic manner.

Kuhnst bears some resemblance to the published portraits of Oom Paul Kruger. He is a patriarchal appearing German of over eighty years and appeared in court yesterday accompanied by his wife.

Extreme difficulty was anticipated in securing a jury as half a dozen of the men sworn stated that they would be prejudiced against any evidence given by police spies. Judge Humphreys made another attack on the system of employing informers to secure evidence in liquor cases saying:

"A man who will deliberately ingratiate himself into the confidence of another for the purpose of betraying that confidence, and while with words of friendship upon his lips he is seeking by every means in his favor to obtain an admission which can be tortured into a confession of guilt, which he may play on the world, as a means to accomplish the downfall of one for whom he professes great friendship, cannot be possessed of a very high sense of honor or of moral obligation. Hence the law looks with suspicion on the testimony of such witnesses and the jury should be specially instructed that in weighing their testimony greater care is to be exercised than in the case of witnesses wholly disinterested. It is doubtful if anything is really gained in the administration of the law from the admission of such testimony. If it is answered that confessions are thus obtained which could not otherwise be had it may be said in reply that the same is true of the rack and wheel by means of which confessions were formerly forced from its victims but which experience showed were entirely unreliable."

The court further added that he didn't believe there was another place in the world excepting perhaps Russia or France which was so infested with police spies as is Honolulu.

The jury was out for nearly an hour before a verdict of acquittal was returned. It was composed of the following men: George W. Macy, Joseph Richards, Jonah K. Nakila, George W. Harrison, E. Woodward, G. K. Kala, J. M. Davis, R. A. Dexter, Harry S. Swinton, J. Kahalepua, Guy Livingston, Alexander K. Aona.

COURT BRIEFS.

Alfred W. Carter has filed his second annual account as guardian of Annie T. K. Parker. The income is derived largely from the Parker ranch, the earnings from which for the year were $16,620. The receipts for the year amounted to over $15,000. The estate consists of an immense amount of lands, cattle, bonds, etc.

Elizabeth Kawaluna has asked that she be appointed guardian of the estate of her sister, Annie Makani.

The cases of Territory vs. Napoliona and Territory vs. Crespo de Ales were ordered stricken from the calendar yesterday.

J. R. Holt has transferred the judgment of $1,057.35 to Thos. Fitch, obtained in the matter of the estate of R. W. Holt, deceased. In a decision upon the master's report, the Court holds that the money held by Henry Smith, $2,114, must be paid into court. In his decision, the Court says:

"This Court cannot by another trustee act as a collector for Mr. Cartwright except as provided by law, in a proper action when the proper process of the court is invoked. The court feels that Mr. Cartwright should be repaid, but is powerless to order the trustee, Mr. Henry Smith, to withhold the money due the Holts as their income, for the reimbursement of Mr. Cartwright. The Court is compelled to grant the prayer of the petition and hereby orders Henry Smith, trustee of the Holt estate, to pay into court forthwith the sum of $2,114.70, one-half thereof for J. D. Holt and one-half thereof for J. R. Holt."

A. J. Gonzalez and Mrs. Mary Young pleaded guilty to a charge of adultery yesterday, and sentence was suspended until the February term. Judge Wilcox had fined the man $75 and the woman $50 and costs.

The case of Oscar L. Rothschild, charged with gross cheat, was ordered stricken from the files.

The defendant is said to be in San Francisco, and could not be found. He was said to have obtained $100 from Albert Barnes by means of a forged draft.

Bali was declared forfeited in the case of Matsumoto, charged with larceny in the second degree.

A motion to dismiss the appeal in the case of Joaquin Silva vs. J. F. Souza, damages, was filed yesterday. The bond given by defendant is insufficient to cover the judgment, it is alleged.

Supreme and Circuit Courts were adjourned at 2 o'clock yesterday because of the death of Attorney Johnson Nickens.

Unique Display of Curios.

A unique feature of the bazaar to be held at St. Clement's rectory on Saturday of this week will be a representation of Dickens' "Old Curiosity Shop," presided over by Little Nell. More than a hundred objects of historical interest have been loaned, and it is somewhat surprising that in Honolulu are treasures dating from four hundred years ago, and ranging from tapestry designed by Rubens, and blood-stained hangings from a shah's palace, with relics of the sack of Peking in '61, Waterloo swords, medals; an Italian poisoned ring, etc., down to a bit of the burial robe of the little Prince of Hawaii. Just such a collection has never before been exhibited in Honolulu, and will well repay the 25 cents admission.

Death of John Gillig.

John Gillig, a well known merchant of Virginia City, died in San Francisco on November 3, aged seventy-four years. Mr. Gillig was a native of Detroit, and went to Virginia City in the boom days of the old Comstock Lode. He went into the hardware business there, and the firm of Gillig, Mott & Co. was one of the best known firms in Nevada for a third of a century. Mr. Gillig was a successful business man, and, in addition, was a fortunate investor in the Comstock mines. He accumulated enough to make a comfortable competence, and retired from business a number of years ago. He was a kindly old gentleman, of a retiring disposition, and was greatly loved by those who knew him. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Rebecca Gillig, and one son, Mr. Harry M. Gillig, a prominent member of the Bohemian Club, who is well known in New York and San Francisco.—Argonaut.

HAWAIIAN BOYS' PLOK.

To Start a School Newspaper to Raise Money for a Gymnasium.

The Hawaiian boys are apparently boys of spirit. Those of the Kaahumanu School at Honolulu have long desired a gymnasium building on the school grounds, but the city has not seen fit to build it for them.

Now the boys have undertaken to raise the money and have it built without municipal aid. After holding several meetings they decided on a plan which they feel sure will be successful.

The boys are soon to start a paper to be called the Malle Lehua to be devoted to matters of interest concerning Kaahumanu School, and in a general way give information concerning all the other schools of Honolulu. From subscriptions to the paper and advertising the boys hope to form the nucleus of a fund which will go far toward making their pet scheme a certainty.

Kaahumanu School has a printing establishment, and the older boys are being taught to set type and perform all the little odd jobs which are necessary in the printing department of a job office or newspaper. They have a fine printing press and everything appertaining to the mechanical needs of such a paper as they contemplate issuing.

The printing of a paper would naturally come within the scope of the training which the teachers are giving the older pupils, and the practical lesson in conducting a paper will be of great benefit to them.—N. Y. Sun.
